Stopping the Compliance Insanity

Countrywide's sane approach to managing business continuity compliance of critical vendors

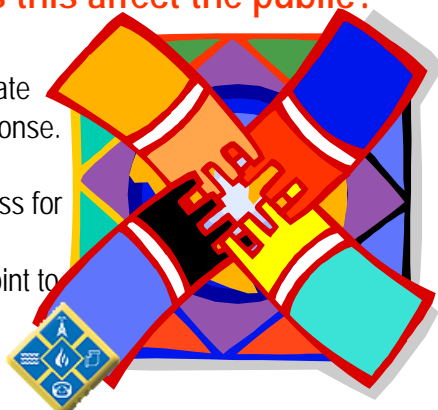

Phil Bigge, who has managed global business continuity programs for 11 years, will discuss how Countrywide maintains its business continuity vendor risk management program to satisfy company and regulatory requirements, especially the Gramm-Leach-Bliley [Financial Services Modernization] Act. You will learn how to minimize the time and costs necessary to review your vendors for business continuity compliance. Allowing you and your vendors more time to spend on what matters most -- advancing the company's business continuity program.

Private/Public Partnerships

84% of essential services are privately held. How does this affect the public?

Don Boland became the Executive Director of the California Utilities Emergency Association (CUEA) in February this year. The CUEA is a premier example of private and public coordination of multiple utility services for the benefit of emergency response. Prior to his position with CUEA, Don's service included more than thirty years experience as the Senior Director of National Security and Emergency Preparedness for AT&T and decades of experience as a Fire Chief. His national perspective and his participation in many committees, including NFPA 1600, will bring a unique view point to this presentation.
