

MOCK DISASTER EXERCISE WORKSHOP

The workshop is based on an earthquake scenario on the Newport-Inglewood fault in Southern California and its impact on a local newspaper company. Participants will assume roles of executives, managers, employees, advertisers, parent company management, etc. Event simulations will include communication, distribution, and coordination problems as well as other realistic issues and successes.

The workshop experience will help you recognize plan deficiencies and organization/communication barriers. You will walk away with methods to improve response and event management and some practical skills that will effectively improve your own readiness.
